IMPORTER OR SUPPLIER STATUS

Select one:

- ☐ We are the end user, manufacturer, processor, or producer of the imported goods.
- ☐ We supply the imported goods to the end user, manufacturer, processor, producer, government entity, health care organization, public safety organization, or other eligible entity.

Where the Importer supplies the goods to another entity, the Importer understands that it is responsible for maintaining appropriate records demonstrating that the goods were intended for use by an eligible entity or for an eligible purpose.

Supporting records may include:

- end-use attestations from customers;
- statements appearing on contracts or purchase orders;
- sales and supply agreements;
- government contracts or subcontracts;
- customer declarations;
- invoices and shipping records;
- statements of work;
- bills of material;
- production records; and
- other documentation demonstrating the identity of the end user and the intended use of the goods.

Important

The NAICS links are useful for identifying the importer's or end user's industry sector, but NAICS classification by itself does not necessarily establish eligibility for surtax relief. The importer should also confirm that the goods, entity, use, importation period, and other conditions satisfy the particular remission order or relief provision being claimed.

RECORDS AND VERIFICATION

The importer acknowledges and agrees that:

- Supporting documentation must be maintained and provided upon request.
- Imported goods may be subject to examination at the time of importation, post-release verification, trade compliance review, surtax verification, origin verification, tariff classification review, valuation review, or customs audit.
- Failure to establish eligibility for any claimed relief, exemption, remission, preferential tariff treatment, duty relief, or other customs benefit may result in assessments or reassessments of duties, surtaxes, taxes, interest, penalties, or other amounts owing.
- The importer is solely responsible for maintaining evidence supporting the declared end use of the goods.

RELiance AND INDEMNITY

The importer acknowledges that PF Collins International Trade Solutions is relying upon this attestation when determining the application of surtax relief provisions, remission orders, tariff treatments, customs programs, and other end-use-related customs declarations.

The importer further agrees that:

- PF Collins may rely on the information provided in this attestation without conducting an independent verification.
- PF Collins shall not be responsible for any consequences arising from its reasonable reliance on information supplied by or on behalf of the importer.
- PF Collins shall not be liable for any duties, surtaxes, taxes, interest, penalties, assessments, reassessments, losses, damages, costs, or expenses arising from inaccurate, incomplete, misleading, or outdated information supplied by the importer.
- PF Collins shall not be liable for the importer's failure to comply with any end-use condition, program requirement, remission condition, permit condition, regulatory obligation, or customs requirement applicable after importation.
- The importer agrees to indemnify and hold harmless PF Collins, its officers, directors, employees, and agents from any claims, losses, damages, liabilities, penalties, interest, legal fees, professional fees, or expenses arising from reliance on this attestation or from any inaccurate or incomplete information supplied by the importer.

The importer certifies that:

- The information contained in this attestation is true, accurate, complete, and current.
- The declared end use accurately reflects the intended use of the imported goods at the time of importation.
- Any change in the facts, end use, ownership, disposition, processing, transfer, sale, diversion, exportation, or destruction of the goods that may impact customs treatment will be communicated promptly to PF Collins.
- The importer acknowledges that customs treatment may be based upon information supplied by the importer and that incorrect information may result in the denial of relief or reassessment by the Canada Border Services Agency.

ATTESTATION SCOPE

Select one:

☐ Attestation will be applied to all goods imported into Canada under unless noted otherwise.

☐ Attestation only applies to the following goods or transaction:

DECLARATION

I certify that I am authorized to execute this attestation on behalf of the importer.

I have reviewed the information provided and confirm that it is true, accurate, complete, and current.

I understand that PF Collins will rely upon this attestation when preparing customs and regulatory declarations and when determining the potential application of surtax relief provisions, remission orders, and other customs programs based on end use.

I acknowledge and accept the responsibilities, obligations, indemnities, and limitations of liability contained within this attestation.

This attestation remains valid for all substantially identical goods imported by the importer unless revoked or amended in writing. The importer agrees to notify PF Collins immediately if any information contained herein changes.
